CELEBRATING

This year marks the BBC's 100th year and, to celebrate, a host of displays in the Floral Marquee will be inspired by popular BBC programmes, from The Archers to Only Fools and Horses. A taste of what's in store:

- A Pebble Mill inspired display that was personally designed by Peter Seabrook who passed away earlier this year will include contributions from local schools and serve as a tribute to Peter's influence on horticulture over the years.
- Alexandra Froggatt's headline feature inspired by Peaky Blinders incorporates original props from the series. Alex was awarded Platinum for her 'Watchmaker's Garden' at BBC Gardeners' World Live 2019.
- Award-winning designer Paul Stone returns to the Show, with his first ever feature in the Floral Marquee, inspired by The Archers. Paul's previous Show Gardens include the Nostalgia Garden designed as a celebration 50 years of BBC Gardeners' World in 2017.
- Master grower Jon Wheatley will present a garden homage to Only Fools and Horses.
- The House of Plants indoor gardening feature returns, this year transformed into a house-plant house party, inspired by Top of the Pops! Expect bright colours, lights and plant-pizzazz.

Immersing visitors ever further into a world of plants, the Floral Marquee hosts The Plant Experts, including Lucy Chamberlain, Saul Walker and BBC Radio WM's 'Laughing Gardener' Darren Rudge, on hand for one-to-one advice. New in 2022 the Plant Experts will also lead special morning Plant Expert Tours of their plant highlights at the Show. The Woodland Trust return with talks at their Tree Surgery with help and advice for visitors.

MY GARDENERS' WORLD STAGE

This Stage in the Floral Marquee is where exhibitors, special guests and the BBC2 Gardeners' World presenters will share ideas about how we can all do our bit for sustainability and the environment in our gardens, being mindful of our activities and the impact on wildlife and plants.
